

Construction Update: September 5

This week crews continued installing the sanitary sewer along La Fox River Drive. To date, the sewer has been installed up to the intersection of Washington Street.

Next week*, crews will install the manhole at the intersection of La Fox River Drive and Madison Street. The construction team will also continue installing the sanitary sewer along La Fox River Drive between Washington Street and Cornish Park. Note: Due to this work, next week, access along La Fox River Drive north of Washington Street will be limited and will be restored at the end of each day. When access is limited, residents may use the municipal parking lots at Washington and N. Harrison streets, and along the side streets outside the work zone. On-street parking in the work zone will be prohibited during working hours - all vehicles parked on the street must be removed before 6:30 am.

Later next week, the contractor expects N. Harrison Street to be closed between Front Street and Algonquin Road. More information will be provided next week.

*Crews will be off on Monday, September 7 in observance of Labor Day and will resume work on Tuesday, September 8.

Detour

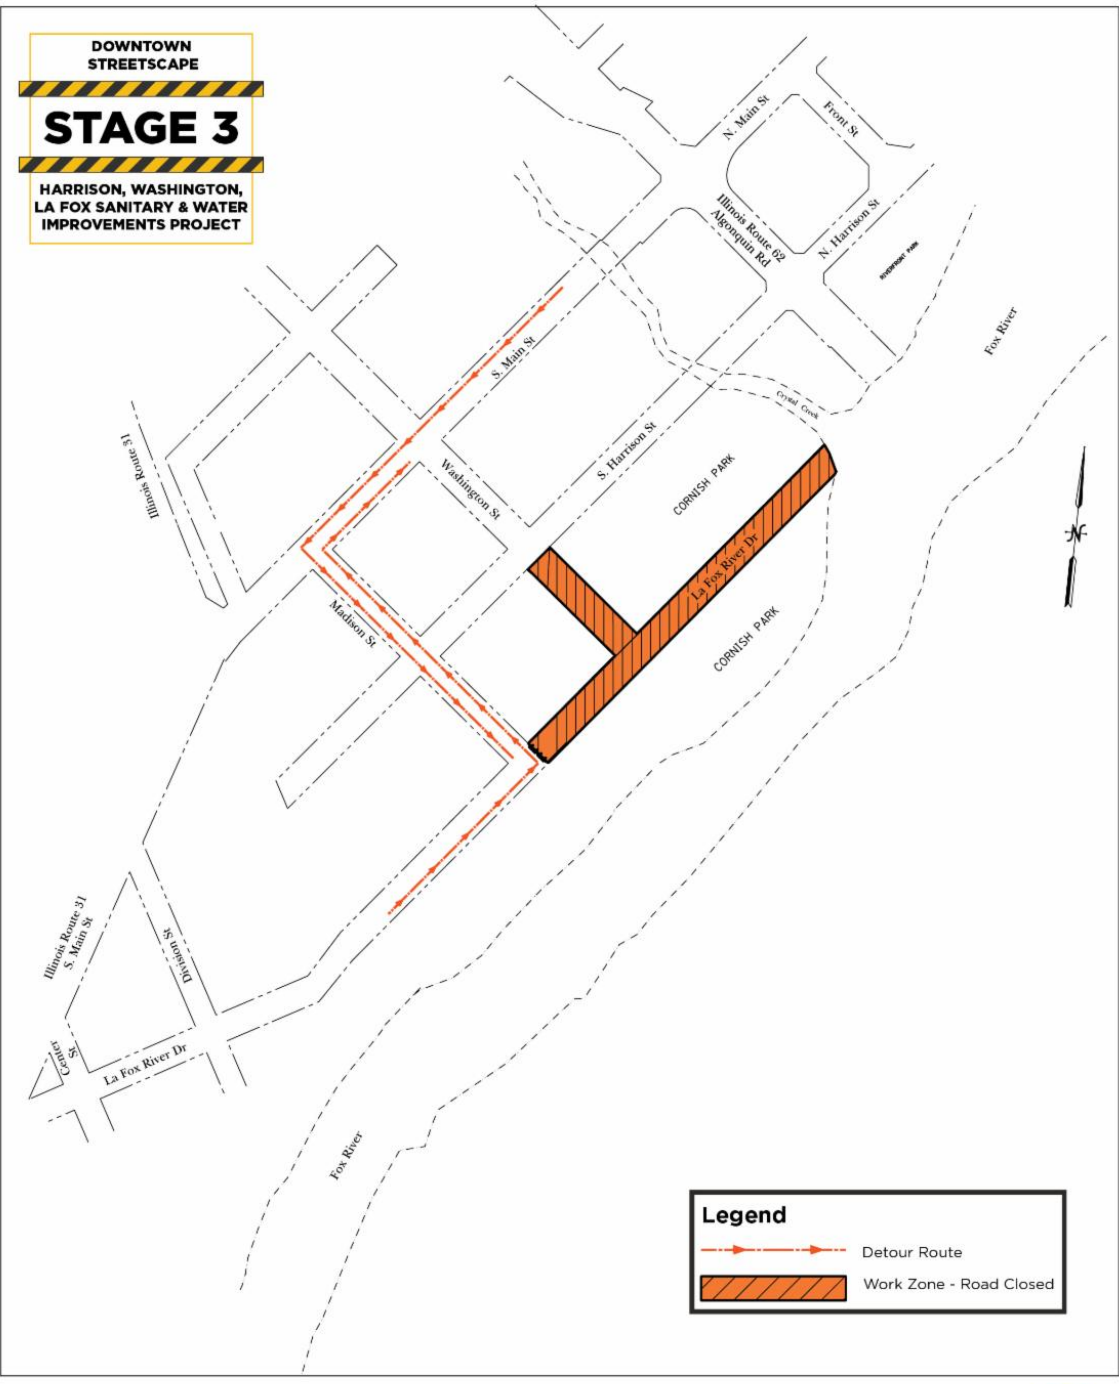

Traffic will be routed along La Fox River Drive to Madison and Main streets around the following road closures:

- La Fox River Drive from north of Madison Street to the Fox River.
- Washington Street from La Fox River Drive to south of S. Harrison Street. The intersection of S. Harrison and Washington streets will remain open.
